ROUTT COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' STRATEGIC PLAN V.4

The Commissioners' Strategic Plan is designed to define the goals and strategies for Routt County staff, while staying true to the mission of the organization.

Routt County Mission: The mission of Routt County is to efficiently deliver a balance of public services and infrastructure to provide a safe and healthy place to live for present and future generations.

This planning document is intended to help Routt County staff prioritize its actions and ensure that the Commissioners' goals and strategies are met. The Commissioners expect that each department would create their own strategic plan, using the same goals and similar strategies, but adding the actions that are relevant to that department.

The Commissioners' Goals: These are the nine goals of the commissioners. Please note that they are not ranked.

1. Preserve the Character of Routt County
2. Maintain County's Level of Service to Customers
3. Support a Healthy and Safe Community
4. Model Environmental Sustainability, Adaptability and Resilience
5. Plan for Future Needs
6. Ensure County's Financial Health and Fiscal Responsibility
7. Modernize Systems/Processes to Increase Efficiencies and Protect Assets
8. Establish Strong Organizational Culture and Management Style
9. Attract and Retain a Professional and Competent Workforce

In the following pages you will find more details about each goal. The Commissioners have outlined proposed strategies to meet the goal and are open to other strategies that might fit the department. Remember a strategy is something ongoing. After strategies, there is a section called actions. In this document, the Commissioners have only highlighted the actions that require their attention. Each department will need to build out the actions appropriate to their responsibilities. There is another section called Communication which outlines some ideas of how to communicate the goal, strategies and actions to the different audiences affected by the goal. More discussion is needed to discern who will implement the communications tactics. In addition, this strategic planning document will be used as a way to update the Commissioners on each department's progress. The Commissioners would like high-level updates that assure them that these goals are achieved, and the strategies are being implemented. A template for these updates will be shared with the departments.

GOAL #1 PRESERVE THE CHARACTER OF ROUTT COUNTY

CONTEXT: What makes Routt County different than other communities in Colorado is its broad economic diversity, as well as its long history of ranching, mining, farming and tourism. As growth continues, Routt County wants to ensure that people can still afford to live and work here, that appropriate economic development continues, that open space and working landscapes are preserved, that we continue to support recreation and agriculture and that we welcome new residents from all walks of life.

Routt County needs to ensure that the level of services can be maintained even with a larger population and a limited revenue base.

DRAFT

DIVERSITY, INCLUSION AND EQUITY

DIVERSITY

Diversity is when individuals with different identities, experiences, and backgrounds come together in the workplace.

INCLUSION

Inclusion is when everyone has the same opportunity to participate and contribute, regardless of who they are.

EQUITY

Equity is when systems provide for fair treatment, access, and opportunity for all.

WHY DOES IT MATTER?

Our workplaces are constantly changing and evolving. These dynamic environments require a diverse group of people who can contribute their best work all day, every day.

Diverse teams are more successful because they have the potential to include a wider range of perspectives. Together, they have the power to see a more complete picture.

People who contribute to diverse teams effectively are most likely to succeed. When you value and respect others, they will do the same for you. It's that simple.

IDENTITY

Everyone has a social identity made up of various characteristics.

Some characteristics are externally obvious, but some are not.

These characteristics can result in advantages or disadvantages.

We experience situations and workplaces differently based on our identities. We can show respect for others by engaging with them, being open to their perspectives, avoiding stereotypes and assumptions.

UNCONSCIOUS OR IMPLICIT BIAS

Our brains receive millions of pieces of information per second but can only process a handful at a time. To avoid overload, our brains use shortcuts to select certain pieces of information and fill in the gaps with prior experience and assumptions.

Drawing conclusions in this way is called bias. When we're not aware of how bias impacts us, it's called "unconscious" or "implicit" bias. Failing to identify and interrupt bias can have negative consequences.

MICROAGGRESSIONS

What we might think is a joke, compliment, or a question about someone's identity, can be offensive and cause harm. These types of comments are called "microaggressions."

Even though they're called microaggressions, their impact isn't minor or small. Over time, they tend to build up, and cause exclusion and exhaustion.

If you cause harm, don't make it about you, and don't tell the other person that they are overreacting. Instead, apologize respectfully and learn how not to repeat the mistake.

If you are offended, you can try to have a constructive conversation about it—but ultimately, you get to decide how you want to react and what you want to do.

DIVERSITY, INCLUSION AND EQUITY WHAT YOU CAN DO

Contributing to diversity, inclusion and equity requires us to:

- advance the interests of others
- speak up for marginalized groups
- commit to improving things for everyone
- follow up on those commitments through our actions

You can make your workplace more inclusive, and thereby more successful, by starting the change within yourself with these three steps: Learn, Engage, and Act.

LEARN

Rather than putting the burden on others to educate you, learn how to support your coworkers who might be excluded or marginalized through self-reflection, seeking guidance from those you trust, reading and researching.

ENGAGE

Get to know coworkers who are different from you. Look for opportunities to greet them in a friendly manner or have a conversation. Be yourself and find out who they are. Ask for their point of view.

ACT

Amplifying marginalized voices and create space for others to participate and succeed. Lift up and support your coworkers, exhibiting kindness and empathy. If you get the opportunity, advocate for them and give them a boost, just as they may have done for you.

REMEMBER

You may make mistakes along the way—engaging to support diversity, inclusion, and equity is a process. Embrace the discomfort and know that your work is part of a valuable effort to make the workplace more inclusive.

It's OK to start small. If you make a mistake, apologize genuinely and commit to improving. When you engage in efforts to promote diversity, inclusion, and equity, your coworkers will trust you more and rely on your partnership. This can make you more successful, your job more enjoyable, and the organization as a whole more efficient, profitable, and innovative.

change perspectives. achieve compliance. elevate culture.
